By signing up for weekly lessons, your teacher has reserved your lesson time exclusively for you! Your teacher is highly unlikely to be able to fill your lesson time should you cancel. Because of this, we don't offer refunds or make-ups for cancelled lessons and no-shows. Please see our cancellation policies on the next page to view your options, should a situation arise that causes you to have to miss a lesson!

48 hours notice is required for all cancellations*. You may:

- Request your lesson be on Zoom at your regular lesson time.
- Request a Marco Polo video lesson where you will send your teacher a video of your practice session any time before your regular lesson time. Your teacher will then use your lesson time to send you a video back with feedback and practice assignments.
- Request a lesson reschedule. These are not guaranteed and it is recommended that you first try one of the above options.
- Forfeit your lesson.

* You may give less than 48 hours notice once per term due to illness or emergency. Please specify your above option when notifying your teacher.

If you, or anyone in your household, is ill, please do not come to your lesson.

Students who arrive ill to their lessons, will be turned away at the door and the lesson will be forfeited.

Thank you for helping us keep everyone healthy and safe!

If your teacher needs to cancel your lesson, they will offer a rescheduled lesson (either in-person or online), a group class, or a Marco Polo lesson.
